

FUND IS RAISED FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

Committee Gets $50,000 Needed to Secure Peabody $25,000.

STILL $25,000 IS REQUIRED

SITE WILL BE BOUGHT AT ONCE AND WORK PUSHED.

The $50,000 necessary to secure George Peabody's gift of $25,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building in Salt Lake has been raised. The contracts for the $25,000 have not been signed, but the money has been pledged and the soliciting committee, headed by S. V. Phelps, has guaranteed its payment. The fund is still $25,000 short of the $100,000 for building and site, but there is not the need for immediate action on the remaining amount that there was on the $50,000.

Two large contributions were made yesterday. Senator Thomas Kearns gave $2,000 and Mrs. Henrietta McLaughlin $500. David Keith gave $5,000 Saturday, and when the committee started out yesterday it had a balance of $7,000 to raise. All the subscriptions except the two mentioned received yesterday were for comparatively small amounts.

In several instances the officers of corporations pledged contributions, but would not sign a contract without authority from the board of directors. A large part of the $2,000 not yet signed is in this shape, making the committee feel justified in guaranteeing the entire amount in advance, and announcing the entire amount as raised. The time limit set by Mr. Peabody was midnight of June 15, and his gift of $25,000 is assured.

The association will exercise at once its $25,000 option on part of the old city hall site, at State and First South streets, and preparations for a fine modern building, thoroughly equipped, will go ahead. The committee will continue their work of raising funds, and it is expected that the remaining $25,000 will be raised in ample time.

CONCERT A GREAT SUCCESS.

All Halls Entertainment a Series of Delights.

At the concert given in the tabernacle last evening Dr. J. Lewis Browne turned the great organ into an orchestra and made it vibrate with melody. It is not often that an opportunity is given to hear a master of such an instrument, and Dr. Browne established a new standard.

programme was varied enough to bring out not only the full possibilities of the organ, but of the music it is not what he plays, but the way he plays it, and the striking feature of his work was his wonderful versatility in the beauty of execution is another feature. His entire work betrays all the sentimentality and brilliancy that a perfect and profound knowledge of music and a masterful familiarity with such instruments can give.

Every number last evening was a magnificent interpretation by a master of technique and harmony. Another brilliant feature was Professor Pedersen's work upon the violin.

Miss Emma Ramsey sang several compositions of Dr. Browne's. Every one betrayed the beauty of the artist, and the songstress gave them the rich interpretation which all Hallows' music like hers can give. Her rendition of the scene from "Der Freischütz" was brilliant. In tone coloring and style.

Charles Kent sang the "Treador" song from "Carmen." It gave the audience a chance to hear a dramatic quality of his voice, and he brought out every note of his expression. It was one of the big hits of the evening.

Arthur Pedersen executed one of the most artistic and complicated numbers that he has yet attempted in public. He took Vieuxtemps' Russian and called it "The House of Storm." Master McDonnell undertook the death of Stronze. Senegade and Polonsky in a masterly and beautiful tone of the clarinet. The dash and dramatic style which characterized the playing of Hallows' music surprised the audience. Their best number was their college march, "The College March," which was played by Anton Pedersen, their instructor.

Measrs. Browne, Pedersen, McClellan and Anton Pedersen, their instructor, heard in a grand final number. The stage was richly decorated with shrubbery and flowers. The first and second parts of the class honors were bestowed. At the recital a fine orchestra of local artists led last evening will be heard in the tabernacle.
